

There is NO reason the FCC should implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protection!!!!!!

For once, we can enjoy our evening without the constant interruption of the feaking telephone, and being hounded by sells and charity calls!

Why would the FCC EVEN CONSIDER any proposal to lessen this law is beyond what I can even comprehend! Do they just enjoy making people's lives miserable?

As for the idiots that want this law revised because I, at some point in my life, bought something from them, tell them to go pound sand! If I want anything from these companies, you can damn sure bet I will call them myself! I don't need hounded on the phone!

These could very well be the same coporations who send porno messages to my 11 year old when he is on-line. Tell the FCC to get off their asses and do something about that! Doing something about stopping the nasty pop-up messages seems to be a far more productive use of time than trying to revise a law that EVERYONE likes!

Come on FCC, get it together!
